

Custom-Made Mirrors Solve Decorating Dilemmas

Want to make a small room look bigger? Have an odd-shaped space on your wall you'd like to fill? Need a focal point for your dining room or the finishing touch for your foyer? A mirror could be the answer. A custom-made mirror frame can solve all of these decorating problems—and what's more, it's a practical addition to any room that you'll use for years to come.

Mirrors are easy to find at furniture showrooms or home decor stores. But a custom mirror, built by a professional framer, is made to your specifications—not pulled off a rack. You determine the size and shape of the mirror and even the color and style of the moulding.

You can choose a frame that matches any part of your decor: your furniture, your wall-coverings, or even other frames in your home.

Consider your decorating needs. Tall, thin mirrors look great going up a staircase. A large mirror in a formal frame hung above a fireplace is a classic look. Small, square mirrors in wide, decorative mouldings are great accent pieces that work well in almost any room. For a different look, create a frame that displays a small piece of artwork above a decorative mirror.

Solving those difficult design dilemmas might be easier than you think—with a custom-made mirror frame!
