

Preservation Tip

Chances are, what you want to frame would benefit from preservation framing. After all, if you're framing it, you want to protect it and make it last for as long as possible. Items can be preserved for years to come with preservation framing techniques, such as glass or acrylic that filters out ultraviolet light, reversible mounting methods, and sealing the frame package to minimize the effects of humidity or extreme changes in temperature.

Another important aspect of preserving your art is to use the right matboard. Ask us about preservation-grade matboards that are acid-free and safely surround the art. These matboards prevent the yellowing and degradation of paper. Preservation matboards are available in all colors and textures and enhance any framing project. Creative matting adds to the beauty and enriches the artwork while keeping it safe for the future. ■
