

Adding a Golden Touch

When it comes to displaying a piece of art, the frame is just as important as the painting, print, or photo. A well-designed frame should not draw focus away from the art but should complement the piece. One way to achieve this goal is to start with a simple oak frame and then add a finishing touch, like gilding.

Gilding directly onto an oak frame creates an iridescent quality that changes when viewed from different angles. This subtle embellishment creates an eye-catching effect when light reflects off of the gold leaf.

Gilding directly on an oak frame creates a subtle iridescent effect that changes when viewed from different angles.

A subtle enhancement may be just the finishing touch you need to draw attention to a favorite photograph or an important document, like an advanced degree or even an award certificate. We'll help you find a moulding and finish that suits your taste and your budget.